After passing the compliments of the day the sergeant looked at Clark and said: "Hello, here's the fellow I sold pie and tobacco to at the same time the old soldier Swift was given a free meal ticket."

Before beginning the hearing yesterday, it was thought advisable to ake the prisoner before Mrs. Wunder, the lady who on the day and supposed hour of the murder saw the apparently fugitive negro going up the Falls Church road.

Mrs. Wunder, after scrutinizing Clark, told the officers that in her opinion the right man had at last been caught, as he was undoubtedly the fellow she had seen in such an agitated condition on the road. At the formal hearing which followed Justice Tonson acted as chief and Justice Taut hardly more than an onlooker.

After a few questions, many of which did not bear on the case, Tonson discharged the prisoner.

THEY HAVE RETURNED.

The Corcoran Cadets Back From the The Corcoran Cadets reached home this morning at 7 o'clock from their outing at Virginia Beach and marched to their armory, where they were dismissed. The last days in camp were eminently a success. Sunday night being a quiet one the camp was wrapped in siumber by 11 o'clock for the first time. The boys were up bright and early Monday morning, and the camp resembled a "bee hive," each man being busily engaged packing trunks, chests, &c., after which breakfast was had, each man also doing justice to himself in this line. At $:30 o'clock every man took his place at his tent, and when the shrill notes of Private Gibson's bugie sounded every tent fell as one, and camp Geo. H. Harries was a thing of the past. Gibson and Private Heath Taylor, they making the highest and next highest score in rifie practice for the season just closed. The presentation was made by the Hon. Thos. W. Miller of Virginia, an ex-militia officer. His speech was full of patriotism and praise for the militiamen of the United States, and he spoke in the highest terms of rifie practice and its necessity to make a successful soldier. ALEXANDRIA.

A Vexed Question Settled. Mayor Strauss, who had announced his determination to call the city council together every night during the recess, if need be, until a quorum was obtained to fix a place for the deposit of night soil, obtained a quorum last night in both boards. An ordinance was unanimously adopted spending some time with his friend, Mr. authorizing the mayor and the committee Lulley of Washington, at his Oxon Hill on public property to designate a place either inside or outside of the corporation line where such deposits may be made. The contractor, Mr. Patrick Dillon, will The Brookland Lodge, No. 25, 1. O. O F., held their special session on Saturday evening, and the second and third degrees now pay the bonus of $400, enter into contract, give bond, and the shore side on the south bank of the canal under the hill will, as already stated in The Star, be selected The Democratic Convention Delega-

The delegates chosen by the Alexandria wards to represent the democracy of this city at the Richmond convention held a meeting last night and organized by the election of John T. Sweeney as chairman and Leonard Marbury as secretary. The delegates will leave for Richmond on the night of Thursday or the morning of Fri-day. A full delegation will be present, all the absent delegates being represented by heir alternates The Corner Stone Centennial. The meeting of the vocalists of the city under the direction of Prof. T. D. Gambrill at Peabody Hall last night began preparation for their work at the Capitol Centennial. Excellent progress was made. Last night the Relief Hook and Ladde Company agreed to attend the celebration. Tenight a citizens' meeting will be held at the board of trade room on the subject. Funeral From Washington. Lafayette Lodge, No. 11, I.O. Mechanics and Potomac Lodge, No. 38, of Odd Fellows met at the Washington ferry this afternoon the funeral of W. F. Sullivan, which came from 3264 N street northwest, Wash ington to make interment here. The funer-al proceeded to the cemetery where the remains were laid at rest with solemn rites. The Legal Bars to Street Work. The proposed comprehensive system of street improvement, although hindered by the lack of current funds and the inability to lay special tax, might still be carried on by a special loan effected for the purpose, if this should be legal. It happens, however, that when the general assembly many years ago authorized the corporation of Alexandria to compromise its debt on a basis of 3 per cent interest, it enacted that the debt of the corporation should not be increased. The debt, at that time, was a little more than $1,000,000. The debt has now been reduced to about $900,000. The question is whether the issue, at this time, of $100,000 in city bonds would increase the debt in the sense meant by the act of the legislature. Those who contend that it would not do so urge the issue of the new bonds on the basis of the old ones which have been already redeemed. This question is now being considered by the legal authorities and a report on the subject will be made to the city council after the recess.

Railroad Rumors. by a special loan effected for the purpose, Railroad Rumors.

It is understood, on the streets, that the railroad employes of the Midland railroad ecently dismissed here are to be re-employed at an early day. Two trains have een taken off of the Richmond and Danville road, but that will not, it is said, lessen the number of train hands employed. There is also a rumor that after this month the office of the Midland division of the Richmond and Danville road will be removed to Charlottesville.

At the hearing of the charge against Mr. Frank Ballenger at West End Saturday evening Mr. Allensworth withdrew all his complaints and the case was dismissed.

The Hydraulion Fire Company has decided to accept the invitation to the Capital corner stone laying centennial, and it is probable that the entire fire department of Alexandria will be present.

Ephraim Latham's Will.

The will of Ephraim Latham states he is uninfluenced by mortal man or woman; that he has no real or personal property or money to bequeath, and he is in debt, and the only resources with which to pay is business prospects, viz, an interest in a patent car coupling and a patented harness buckle. He says to Mrs. Hannah McL. Wolff he is indebted for many years' board, lodging and washing, and the claim should be preferred. To Ethan A. Sawyer he says he is indebted for several suits of clothing, and he is to be paid whatever is due. He names his brother, Jonathan F. Latham, as Ephraim Latham's Will.

STEAM AND SAILING VESSELS. Experienced Sailors Have no Trouble With the Steambonts.

There has been a great deal of good humor and very little ill feeling among the river sailing craft. There have been some close calls, but they were not due to any unreasonable disposition of the steamboat captains. Many accidents are invited by the recklessness of people who devote a Sunday or so in each year to sailing and are not sufficiently skilled in the manage ment of a boat. These people evince a strong desire to sail into the swells of steamers. This will often cause the boom to jibe and complications result. It is not an uncommon sight along the river to see half a dozen small craft sailing so as to approach within danger distance of a passing steamer to catch her swell.

It is on these occasions that the steamboat pilots have to exercise great skill and tact in order to avoid trouble. It is rarely that the water dogs of sail or steam vessels clash. They know the rules of the road, obey them and seldom come to arief or confusion. It is when the pale-faced land lubber comes down on the Sabtath with a flotilla of giddy girls in tow, and who valiantly endeavors to show off how little he knows about boats, that the river people lose temper, swear mighty oaths ment of a boat. These people evince s little he knows about boats, that the river people lose temper, swear mighty oaths and make awful threats. The steamboat captains know that there is no positive law compeiling unregistered craft to carry lights at night, but believe that for their safety they should do so. It is very seldom that expert operators on the cotton get pressed by a steamer, because they know the course that those craft take, but people unacquainted with the river in attempting to get away from a steamer will often steer right into her course. On a dark night, a steamboat pilot can not see a small rowboat very far ahead. If it carried a small light the danger would be reduced to a minimum.

Were Married in Baltimore. Mere Married in Baltimore.

Mr. Joseph B. Tait and Miss Olive Cavis, both of this city, were betrothed, but it was not intended they should marry for a year or two yet, as they are both under age. Now the news has just leaked out that they were married in Baltimore city by Rev. J. W. Trout on March 30 last, but had managed to keep the fact a secret until now. Several days ago the parents of the two were informed that the marriage had taken place. They are making the best of the place. They are making the best of the matter, and in a few days the young couple will take up their residence at the home of Mr. Tait's parents, 16 3d street southeast.

A Serious Accident.

Yesterday afternoon Rose, the nine-yearold daughter of Mr. E. T. Vermillion of 724 8th street southeast, met with quite a serious accident, resulting in the loss of a foot.
She was crossing the railroad tracks on Pennsylvania avenue near 7th st., when seeing a grip car west bound approaching she stepped off the track to the other, not seeing the east-bound car (229) approaching, and before it could be checked she was knocked down and run over. Mr. T. J.
Ridgely took her to her home, and Dr. Herbert attended her, and subsequently the foot was amputated. L. M. Saunders was the gripman and B. E. Parish conductor. A Serious Accident.

At 10:39 o'clock last night James Jones, in company with a lady, was returning from the wine house on the Gienwood road when the vehicle was upset. The shock threw the lady into spasms and she was taken back to the wine house and attended by Dr. Bradford.
